Schedule 4

Summary of Rights

(Rules 6 and 7 and clause 8)

A Summary of your rights under the Credit Reporting Privacy Code 2004

The Credit Reporting Privacy Code 2004 promotes fairness, accuracy, and privacy in the practice of credit reporting. Credit reporters gather and sell information about you, such as a failure to pay your bills or if you have been made bankrupt. The Code, together with the Privacy Act 1993, gives you specific rights, many of which are summarised below. You can find the complete text of the Code and a link to the Privacy Act at www.privacy.org.nz.

Warning: This is only a generalised summary. If there is a difference between this summary and a provision of the Code or Act, the Code or Act prevails.

Some information can be reported about you

Credit reporters can collect only certain types of information for their credit reporting databases. The types of information they can collect are set out in the Code. Some of the information is about:

- the credit accounts you hold, including their credit limits and repayment history;
- any times you have defaulted on credit repayments (where a failure to pay has gone to debt collection);
- any court judgments that have been made against you; and
- any times you have been made bankrupt or entered into an insolvency arrangement.

There are time limits for keeping and reporting information

Credit reporters can:

- generally disclose this information for only 4 to 5 years and keep it only one further year;
- disclose information about your current accounts until two years after those accounts have closed;
- keep identification information indefinitely; and
- keep information about multiple bankruptcies indefinitely.

Only certain people can access your report for certain purposes

The Code limits the people who can gain access to your credit information. These will usually be credit providers who are considering your application for credit. In some strictly limited circumstances, the information may be made available to:

- prospective landlords who have offered you a tenancy;
- prospective employers who have offered you a job, as long as that job involves significant financial risk;
- prospective insurers involved in insuring your mortgage;
- debt collectors enforcing a debt against you;

- people involved in court proceedings; and
- certain public sector agencies acting under another law.

Your credit information may not be disclosed by a credit reporter for direct marketing purposes.

Your consent is needed in most situations

Most credit checks can take place only with your consent. This applies to access by credit providers, prospective landlords and prospective employers. Your consent may not be required for access by certain public sector agencies, people involved in court proceedings and debt collectors. The credit reporter must log each access that is made to your information and will normally let you know this information if you ask.

You can ask a credit reporter to suppress your credit information if you think you're the victim of fraud

If you believe you are the victim of fraud, including identity fraud, you can ask a credit reporter to suppress your credit information for 10 working days. While your credit information is suppressed, the credit reporter cannot disclose it in the normal way.

If a credit provider asks the credit reporter for your information, the credit reporter can tell them that your credit information is suppressed. The credit provider will know that you may be the victim of fraud and that someone else may be applying for credit in your name.

If you want to apply for credit while your credit information is suppressed, you can ask the credit reporter to release the information to a particular credit provider. The credit reporter must take careful steps to confirm your identity before agreeing to do this.

If you think the fraud is continuing, you can ask the credit reporter to extend the suppression beyond 10 working days. The credit reporter must give you the chance to prove that you are the victim of fraud. They can refuse to suppress your information if they do not think you are the victim of fraud.

You can find out what is held about you

What you can ask for

You are entitled to ask credit reporters for a copy of the credit information they hold about you. You can ask for just the information in your credit report or for all the information held about you. Extra information not included in your credit report could include things like a complete list of people who have accessed your report. If a credit reporter has generated a credit score about you, you have the right to an explanation of this score.

Getting the information

The credit reporter must provide the information to you without too much delay. If you want the information quickly (within 5 working days) you may need to pay a reasonable charge, but otherwise no charge can be made. A credit reporter must check the identity of anyone making a personal access request. This may involve asking you for certain identification details, although these cannot be added to the credit reporter's database without your consent.

You can dispute inaccurate information with the credit reporter

Credit reporters must take reasonable steps to ensure the information they hold is accurate, and promptly correct any errors they become aware of. If you tell a credit reporter that your report contains an inaccuracy, the credit reporter must, if appropriate, take steps to correct it. They will usually check the information you provide with the source, such as a credit provider who submitted a default. During this checking process, the credit reporter must flag your report to show that the item has been disputed.

When the credit reporter must make a decision about inaccurate information

The credit reporter must decide as soon as they can whether to make the correction you have requested or to confirm the accuracy of the information. If the credit reporter needs longer than 20 working days to make a decision they must let you know and tell you why.

What happens if the correction you asked for is not made

If the correction you asked for is not made, you must be told why. You may also ask for a note of your request to be added to your file. This note will be included with future reports.

What happens if a correction is made

If a correction is made, the credit reporter must tell anyone who has recently received your credit report. The credit reporter must tell you what they have done and give you a copy of the amended report.

Sometimes correction may not be appropriate

A credit report describes your credit history, not simply your current debts. Certain information can continue to be reported as long as it is updated to reflect later developments. This includes things like a past bankruptcy or a default that has since been paid in full. In this way, the report remains an accurate statement of those past events.

You have the right to complain if you think the Code has been breached

If you believe a credit reporter has breached the Code, you should first approach that credit reporter directly. Each credit reporter must have their own complaints procedure, and a person who specialises in helping to resolve complaints in a way that is fair, simple and efficient.

If your complaint is not resolved, you may complain to the Privacy Commissioner, who has powers to investigate the matter. Some cases that cannot be settled can be taken to the Human Rights Review Tribunal.

In addition to your rights under the Code, you may take a credit reporter to court. You may choose to do this if you are claiming defamation or negligence. For more information, contact a lawyer or community law centre.

Schedule 5

Driver Licence Numbers

(Rules 8, 11 and 12 and Schedule 3)

Collection and disclosure by subscriber

1. A credit reporter must take such steps as are reasonable in the circumstances to ensure that, where a subscriber collects a driver licence number from an individual for disclosure to the credit reporter, the subscriber:
 - (a) makes clear to the individual that the provision of the driver licence number is voluntary;
 - (b) collects the driver licence card number from the individual and disclose this to the credit reporter; and
 - (c) where the driver licence number and driver licence card number are collected from the individual in person, takes reasonable steps to ensure that the individual is the individual shown on the driver licence.

 - (b) that the driver licence number does not relate to a licence that has been recorded on the national register of driver licences as lost or stolen; and
 - (c) that the driver licence card number is the most recent driver licence card number.
3. Where a driver licence number has been successfully verified as relating to a valid driver licence that has not been recorded as lost or stolen, and is the most recent version, a credit reporter may confirm this by disclosing the driver licence number back to the subscriber in a masked form, by removing the last two digits and replacing them with characters that are neither blank spaces, nor numerical characters nor letters.
4. Where a driver licence number has not been successfully verified as relating to a valid driver licence that has not been recorded as lost or stolen, and is the most recent version, a credit reporter may disclose the full driver licence number and card number back to the subscriber. The subscriber is thereby enabled to check that the correct number was collected from the individual and disclosed to the credit reporter or make other consequent checks.

Hashing by credit reporter

5. If, after having taken measures to verify a driver licence number, the credit reporter wishes to retain information derived from that number for matching, it must convert the driver licence number to a hash value using a non-reversible hash function and may only retain it in this form.

6. The driver licence number must not be written into any database by the credit reporter.

Matching by credit reporter

7. The credit reporter may use the hash value obtained from the driver licence number as supplementary identification information to retrieve and match credit information on individuals, in conjunction with other identification information such as name, address or date of birth.

Schedule 7

Suppression of Credit Information where Individual may be a Victim of Fraud

(Rule 11)

The purpose of this Schedule is to enable an individual who reasonably believes that he or she may be likely to become a victim of fraud to have a credit reporter suppress a credit report thereby making it less likely that another person might fraudulently obtain new credit in the individual's name.

The Schedule outlines:

- how a suppression may be obtained and lifted;
- the responsibilities of credit reporters; and
- the effect of a suppression.

Suppression is directed towards preventing new credit accounts being opened fraudulently. Accordingly, some ongoing access to credit reports is permitted during suppression. Some ongoing updating of suppressed credit reports is permitted.

Initial request

1.1. Where a credit reporter holds credit information about an individual, the individual concerned is entitled to make an initial request to the credit reporter seeking to have that information suppressed on the basis that the individual believes that he or she has been, or is likely to be, a victim of fraud (including identity fraud).

Note: The meaning of "suppressed" for the purposes of this Schedule is outlined at clause 9.1 below.

Note: Clause 5.1 provides that credit reporters must verify the identity of requesters.

1.2. Where a credit reporter receives an initial request, the credit reporter must suppress the individual's credit information for 10 working days from the day on which the request is received and, as soon as reasonably practicable, notify the individual of:

- (a) the suppression and its duration; and
- (b) the effect of an initial suppression and the process to make an extension request, release request and cancellation request.

1.3. At the same time as notification under clause 1.2, the credit report must issue the requester with a password or Personal Identification Number (PIN) to be produced by the individual in conjunction with any associated extension request, release request or cancellation request.

Extension request

2.1. Where an individual has had credit information suppressed under any of the provisions of this Schedule, that individual is entitled to make an extension request to the credit reporter.

2.2. Where a credit reporter receives an extension request, the credit reporter must:

- (a) pending taking a decision on the request – continue to suppress the individual's credit information;
- (b) notify any credit providers that have listed credit accounts on a credit reporter's records prior to the request (pre-existing credit accounts) of the fact of the extension request; and
- (c) as soon as reasonably practicable, decide whether or not to extend the duration of the suppression.

2.3. Where a credit reporter decides to extend the duration of the suppression, the credit reporter must:

- (a) determine whether to extend the suppression for either:
 - (i) a fixed period that it considers is reasonable in the circumstances, being not less than 12 months; or
 - (ii) an indefinite period; and

Note: A suppression granted for an indefinite period continues until cancelled in response to an individual's cancellation request – see clause 4.1 – or terminated by the credit reporter – see clause 6.1.

- (b) notify the individual of that decision, as soon as reasonably practicable, and include in that notification:
 - (i) details of any pre-existing credit accounts that have been verified in accordance with clause 9.2(a);
 - (ii) an explanation of the process for making a release request or cancellation request; and
 - (iii) in any case where the suppression has been extended for a fixed period, the process for making a further extension request.

2.4. A credit reporter may refuse an extension request if it believes, on reasonable grounds, that:

- (a) the individual has not been or, as the case may be, is not likely to be, a victim of fraud; or
- (b) the request is vexatious or is not made in good faith.

2.5. Where a credit reporter refuses an extension request, the credit reporter must notify the individual of that decision, as soon as reasonably practicable, and include in that notification:

- (a) the reason for that refusal; and
- (b) details of the complaints procedure available under clause 8 of the code.

- 2.6. Notwithstanding clause 1.2, where a credit reporter receives an initial request from an individual in respect of whom the credit reporter has previously received an initial request, the credit reporter may treat the request as an extension request.

Release request

- 3.1. Where an individual has had credit information suppressed under any of the provisions of this Schedule, that individual is entitled to make a temporary release request to the credit reporter authorising the disclosure of credit information for the purpose of credit reporting either:

- (a) to a nominated credit provider or providers; or
- (b) for a set period.

- 3.2. Where a credit reporter receives a release request, the credit reporter must, as soon as reasonably practicable, either:

- (a) temporarily lift the suppression consistently with the request and notify the individual; or
- (b) notify the individual of a refusal.

Note: Typically a refusal may result if a release request does not conform to the credit reporter's requirements or where a requester has not provided sufficient information to verify the requester's identity or has not provided the individual's password or PIN.

Cancellation request

- 4.1. Where a credit reporter has suppressed credit information under any of the provisions of this Schedule, the individual concerned is entitled to make a cancellation request to the credit reporter authorising the permanent cancellation of the suppression.

- 4.2. Where a credit reporter receives a cancellation request, the credit reporter must, as soon as reasonably practicable, either:

- (a) cancel the suppression and notify the individual; or
- (b) notify the individual of a refusal.

Identity verification obligations

- 5.1. A credit reporter must not act on any request made under this Schedule unless satisfied concerning the identity of the individual making the request.

- 5.2. In addition to any other reasonable identification requirements, a credit reporter must require an individual making an extension request, release request or cancellation request to provide the password or PIN issued under clauses 1.3 or 5.3.

- 5.3. Where an individual has failed to retain the password or PIN issued under clause 1.3, a credit reporter may on request issue a new password or PIN once it is satisfied concerning the identity of the individual.

Terminating a suppression

- 6.1. A credit reporter may terminate a suppression if the credit reporter believes, on reasonable grounds, that the suppression was obtained as a result of a misrepresentation by the individual concerned of a material fact.
- 6.2. Where a credit reporter decides to terminate a suppression, it must, as soon as reasonably practicable, notify the individual of its decision and:
- (a) give the reasons for that decision; and
 - (b) provide the individual with details of the complaints procedure available under clause 8 of the code.

Charging

- 7.1. A credit reporter may not charge an individual for a request made under any of the provisions of this Schedule but may make a reasonable charge to replace a password or PIN under clause 5.3.

Credit reporter to make available details of request processes

- 8.1. A credit reporter must make available on request and on the credit reporter's website details of the credit reporter's processes to make an initial request, extension request, release request and cancellation request which should include, amongst other matters, guidance on:
- (a) the supporting documentation that might typically be expected;
 - (b) the requirements for agents making applications on behalf of individuals;
 - (c) the credit reporter's criteria for deciding on an extension request;
 - (d) the likely processing time for requests.

Meaning of "suppressed" for purposes of Schedule

- 9.1. For the purposes of this Schedule, where credit information is required to be "suppressed" (or is subject to a "suppression") that information may not be:
- (a) updated or added to except in accordance with clause 9.2;
 - (b) used except in accordance with clause 9.3; or
 - (c) disclosed except in accordance with clause 9.4.
- 9.2. Credit information that is suppressed may be updated or added to in the following circumstances:
- (a) the addition or updating of any credit information:

- (i) in relation to pre-existing credit accounts – only after reasonable steps have been taken to verify that the accounts appear to be genuine and unaffected by third party fraud;

Note: pre-existing credit accounts are defined in clause 2.2(b) as credit accounts listed on a credit reporter's records prior to receiving a suppression request.

- (ii) in relation to credit accounts created after receiving a suppression request (new credit accounts) – only accounts with a credit provider nominated by an individual in a release request, and in relation to which the credit reporter disclosed credit information while a release request was in effect, and only after reasonable steps have been taken to verify that such new accounts appear to be genuine and unaffected by third party fraud;
- (b) the addition of the following credit information that is not necessarily related to a particular credit account:
 - (i) public record information of the classes listed in paragraphs (g), (h) or (i) of the definition of credit information;
 - (ii) access log information relating to accesses permitted pursuant to clause 9.4;
 - (iii) a notice of disputed debt; and
 - (iv) administrative information incidental to credit reporting activities; or
 - (c) the correction of credit information, or the addition of a statement of correction, in accordance with a correction request under rule 7.

9.3. For the avoidance of doubt, credit information that is suppressed may be used by a credit reporter in accordance with rule 10.

Note: For example, suppressed information can be used for the creation of a credit score or for pre-screening of a direct marketing list.

9.4. Credit information that is suppressed may be disclosed by a credit reporter only in the following circumstances:

- (a) in accordance with rule 11(1);
- (b) in accordance with rule 11(2), to any subscriber other than a credit provider; or
- (c) in accordance with rule 11(2), to a credit provider:
 - (i) that has listed with the credit reporter a pre-existing credit account or a new credit account – for purposes related only to that account; or
 - (ii) in accordance with the terms of a release request.

Note: During a suppression, a credit provider may access an individual's credit report in the usual way to update a credit reporter's records in relation to a pre-existing credit account, or for decisions relating to that account, but cannot obtain a credit report for the purposes related to the grant of new credit except where the process has been followed for temporary lifting of the suppression.
